Time for Flu Shots

Presented by: Dr. Kimberly Cornelius

It is time for flu shots again. Each fall and early winter, people at high risk of complications if they catch this serious influenza virus should receive the shot. Unfortunately, only about 20-40% of people who should get the immunization do so. This low immunization rate allows the virus to spread through a community more easily. The virus normally spreads through the United States during the winter months, so it is important to get the shot by mid-November.

A person should get the shot if he is over 65 or if he has any severe or chronic illness, such as heart disease, lung disease or diabetes. Residents of nursing homes or other long-term care facilities should routinely get the shot. Younger people should have the shot if they have any chronic illness, such as kidney failure or immune deficiencies.

The vaccine is incubated in eggs, so if a person is allergic to eggs, chickens or feathers, he should not receive the shot without first doing a scratch test to verify the allergy. The shot should not be given during an acute respiratory infection or other active infection.

The shots are very safe and if any reaction occurs it is a mild fever with aching and fatigue. This may last one to two days. Rarely, a person will get hives, which is probably due to an egg allergy.

The more serious paralysis of Guillain-Barre syndrome is very rare and is only known to be associated with the "swine flu" component which was last used in 1976. Epidemiologists predict which strains of the virus are likely each year, so the shot is different each year.

Flu shots are now available at Rockcastle Medical Arts Building, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Appointments are not required.

Something To Think About

MARKERS AND MONUMENTS

If you are preplanning funeral arrangements, one thing you might consider is the gravestone. You may not be looking to buy anything just yet, but it might be helpful to visit a memorial dealer and brush up on the facts.

Monuments and markers were once made of many materials; now granite and bronze plaques are the most common. Marble, slate, or sandstone—once used exclusively—have been found to weather so badly that they are now rarely if ever used. Granite comes in all colors; black, gray, soft reds, white. The finest stones have an absence of any discoloration or seams, with a fine, uniform grain texture and color throughout.

The size of the stone, the number of words in the inscription, and any special borders or designs all affect the price. Since all stones must be handcrafted, the price may be somewhat more than you imagine. That's another reason to check things out with a memorial dealer, in order to know what you have to pay for.
