In Loving Memories

Happy Birthday Papaw

Written By: Kayla

It's been almost a year I've somehow managed to deal But, when I think of all that's happened It just seems so unreal.

I want to be able to hug your neck and tell you that I love you papaw I want to look you in the face And I can't be with you now, but I know one day We will meet up again, in a very special place.

Remember when we fished Papaw? And we decorated our tree? Or when we played with our water guns. Or dressed up for Halloween?

I want you to know that I missed you And I love you with all my heart And when I think back at the days when we had our "good times" Never thought that we would part. But I've grown up now papaw, and I learned that someday everyone must go. I would have never thought that it would be your time, but I guess I just didn't know.

We'll miss you Papaw, I thought I would let you know But I think mom is taking it the hardest She just didn't expect you to go. But we're holding on to the memories, Papaw.

He is a little flower Plucked from this world of woe. He will blossom in God's garden, And by his love will grow Left from the evil of this world. His life shall perfect be, Dwelling in the mansions all through eternity.

Oh times our hearts are troubled, And oft we wonder why Our little one from heaven Had to leave our home and die. And yet we cannot think of him as dead— But just away.

For he is with our blessed Lord Forever more to stay. So when our heart is heavy And sorrows bend us low, In the secret of His presence, You'll find the heavenly glow. He will give new strength to every day.

And all our sorrows share, So weep not loved ones for him; He is in our Savior's care.

some of them down. In spite of several outstanding individual scores, the team placed ninth out of 33 teams. When we arrive back at camp, we're told we have less than 20 minutes to change and be at our next event.

Our last daylight event is the cross-country obstacle course. The individual stations are a five foot wall, a rolling log (shown in one of the photos), a tunnel, two log jumps, island hopper, another wall, rope climb, another tunnel, low crawl under wire, inverted wall, inverted balance beam, hand over hand across a pipe, an eight foot wall and rolling balance beams. Again, in spite of several outstanding scores, we place eighth out of 33 teams.

The teams can finally relax for a while. Supper is hot dogs, left-over chili from last night and anything else they can find in the kitchen. We even manage to come up with cake, for Justin McKinney's birthday. At 9:30 p.m. the team moves out for the final event. Night Navigation. Divide into four-man teams. Give each team a lensatic compass and two red-filtered flash lights. No moon out tonight, and the terrain is as rough as you can imagine. Give the team a magnetic bearing and send them out to find an index card with a code written on it. Oh, by the way, there are other index cards out there with false codes. We finally get done around 10:30 p.m. The team placed 10th out of 33 teams.

It's been a long day and you think the kids would be tired, but they're not. Most of them would do it all again tomorrow if you'd let them. They finally settle down and go to bed at 11:30 (only because I made them).

We slept in till 7:00 before packing up camp. The award ceremony went great. We may not have won any trophies, but we placed fifth out of 33 teams overall. In addition to that, Joe Husband placed first out of 264 cadets in the Army Physical Fitness Test and third overall in the Obstacle Course bringing home two medallions. That is an accomplishment to be proud of! A great weekend, no injuries and our annual stop by Cumberland Falls before returning home.
