

An overview of the interior of Cox Hardware which has operated in the same building since 1907. Over the years, the business, by design, has changed very little even to the huge coal stove that heated the premises for years.

Martha’s husband, Jim, and his dad, John in 2000. John, who operated the store for many years, died in 2001 and Jim died in 2009 after a long battle with cancer.

After 105 years, Cox Hardware is CLOSING February 28th.

Ford Realty will be auctioning all merchandise, antiques etc. April 27th. Please direct any questions to them.

It has been a joy and a great privilege to operate this business on Main Street for all these years. I am sure that I speak for all the Cox Family when I say that you have been more than customers -- you became our dear, dear friends...Thank you...Thank you...Thank you.

Message posted on Cox Hardware door to announce the closing of the business after 105 years. Martha Cox asked us to print it because she said it best conveyed her feelings about her decision.

cision, Martha said, “The time has come to face reality. With no family member to take over, and the bad economy taking a toll, it is time to close the doors. It is with great sadness this must be done. On behalf of the Cox family, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the customers who have supported us through the years, have cried with us and stood beside us during trying times. Your friendship has meant more to our family than can ever be expressed.”

The building, along with the inventory will be sold April 27th, under the auspices of Ford Bros. Realty.

Martha, who remarried in 2012, said she and her husband, Roy Mink, plan to travel and will reside in Mt. Vernon.

and that her pupils were constricted. He also observed that Krutz appeared intoxicated while performing field sobriety tests.

After initiating the field sobriety tests, Stallsworth used K-9 Laky to search Krutz’s vehicle and Laky alerted Stallsworth to a purse in the front passenger seat. The purse contained two different prescription pill bottles with several different types of pills inside.

The two pill bottles contained 4 Alprazolam (Xanax) tablets, 18 Dextro-amphetamine ADHD tablets, 23 Watson migraine tablets and 3 Baclofen muscle relaxer tablets.

One bottle was in Krutz’s name for Oxycodone 10 mg and the other bottle had a generic homemade label on it. However, no Oxycodone pills were found in the two bottles.

Krutz also told Stallsworth that she was wearing two Fentanyl pain patches. While speaking with Krutz, Stallsworth noticed that she was chewing on something. When he asked her what she was chewing on she said it was “some kind of gum a friend gave her.”

Stallsworth noticed that the substance Krutz was chewing appeared to be plastic and had red specks on it. He would later learn that Krutz was chewing on another Fentanyl pain patch.

Krutz was charged with DUI, three counts of possession of a controlled substance, two counts of illegal possession of a legend drug and drug paraphernalia. She was lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center where she was later released on a $5,000 10% bond.

Scruggs admitted to officers that he had stolen the batteries from the Mt. Vernon Rite Aid. He also told officers that he thought he stole a pair of pliers as well but that he was not sure since he couldn’t find them.

After searching the vehicle, officers found two packs of Sure Comfort syringes and one box of Claritin-D pseudoephedrine tablets inside a Rite Aid pharmacy bag.

Officers used “MethCheck” to discover that Scruggs had been blocked from purchasing any cold medication containing pseudoephedrine. MethCheck also showed that Campbell had purchased the Claritin-D tablets at a Rite Aid in Richmond earlier in the day.

Clyde White fled the scene of the crash and was arrested shortly after near the intersection of Hwy 461 and Hwy 150 in Mt. Vernon.

Commonwealth Attorney Eddy Montgomery’s Office said prosecutors agreed to an Alford Plea because White suffers from several mental illnesses, including dementia and depression.
