Mamaw's Kitchen

By Regina Poynter Hoskins

Dinner is finally ready. The men are standing around the table and Mamaw is seated at the head of the table. "... Bless this food to the nourishment of our bodies according to thy will. We ask in your name. Amen." Mamaw ends the grace that she has said for every meal as long as I can remember. She then encourages everyone to "Sit down and dig in."

CHICKEN AND DUMPLINGS

1 large chicken
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
3 tablespoons shortening, melted
1/3 to 1/2 cup water or chicken broth
Place chicken in a large pot. Cover with water. Bring to a boil. Cover and reduce heat so water gently simmers. Cook for one hour or until chicken is tender and falling off bone. When done, remove from broth and let cool. Remove skin and debone when cool enough to handle. In large bowl, combine flour, baking powder and salt. Add beaten egg, shortening and liquid. Divide into 3 parts. Roll out very thin. Cut in small strips; drop into broth. Cook dumplings until tender. If desired add chicken to stock and dumplings until heated thoroughly.

need to bite into a good, rare rib-eye steak served with a couple ears of bodacious sweet corn on the cob, I'm not sure I'd ever need any teeth again.

And I'm wondering why the people who feed babies have not caught on to the miracle that I now consider my food processor to be. I'd be willing to bet that our kids would turn out to be much better behaved, trusting and well adjusted if they had an alternative to that stuff that comes in those little jars.

numbers possible in scientific calculations. The typical precision of a slide rule was only about three significant digits, compared to many digits on a digital calculator.

It may seem odd, but I have rather an affection for the old-fashioned slide rule as a sort of memento. I will admit, however, that electronic is the only way to go in the modern world. I guess you could say that I had an affair with the slide rule, but I married the calculator! Does that make me sound like a science geek? Well, for at least a time there, I guess I was.

Circuit Clerk's office celebrates Donate Life Month in April

"This April and every day, I am proud of the impact this office has on the lives of others, especially those in need of life-saving organ transplants. I am humbled at the generosity of our community," says Rockcastle Co. Circuit Clerk Eliza Jane York. "Even through tough economic times, our community is committed to helping others."

The Circuit Court Clerk's office plays a vital role in helping patients in need. With nearly 1000 Kentuckians on the waiting list for an organ transplant, the need is greater than ever. The driver's license clerks ask every person obtaining a license or ID to donate a $1 to the Kentucky Organ Donor Program and, if they wish to be a registered organ donor.

"I am honored to announce that in 2012, 425 Rockcastle County residents gave hope to patients in need by becoming registered organ donors," York said.

Out of 3828 licenses issued last year, the Rockcastle County driver's license staff collected $2257 to help the Circuit Clerk's organ donor awareness program. These dollar donations go to a separate non-profit called the Trust For Life. With these funds, the Trust educates Kentucky about the life-saving mission of organ donation through community outreach programs, public speaking and advertising efforts.

Each day, 18 people die while awaiting a life-saving organ transplant. The Circuit Clerk's office, and the dedicated residents of Rockcastle County are working to end the wait and save more lives. As of January 2013, Kentuckians who renew their license can have a blue organ donor heart printed on their ID.

"Every heart we print gives hope to patients in need. We hope everyone will understand that you no longer have to sign the back of your license or use an orange dot. Simply say Yes when you renew your ID to add your name to the confidential Kentucky Organ Donor Registry," York explained.

Any adult Kentucky resident can join the Kentucky Organ Donor Registry at their Circuit Court Clerk's office or online at www.donatelifeky.org. Any Rockcastle County person touched by the mission of organ donation is encouraged to tell their Gift of Life story through the Trust For Life website www.trustforlife.org.
